Somerset Journal:—Misses Katherine and Hellen Arnold, daughters of Prof A J Arnold, of Garrard county, are guests of Mrs Flynn for the week, much to the pleasure of one of the Journal's attaches. Lewis Gill, of Lancaster, and Mr Sparks, of Nicholasville, were guests of John Th. Scher. Geo Smith, of Lancaster, enjoyed two days with the fair at the Fair.

Danville Advocate:—Mr J C Boner, who was very seriously hurt not long since, is reported much better to day, and it is believed that he has excellent chance for recovery. Messrs Walter Hudson and Lewis Gill, of Lancaster, graduates of the class of '05, were in the city yesterday visiting friends. They will go to Princeton University this year to resume their studies. A postal card received by The Advocate from County Attorney William J Price tells of his trip along the coast of California in company with the other members of the party. Mr Price is expected home the latter part of the week.

North Dakota Dickinson Press:—Mrs P A Millard and Miss Lucretia Skinner, of Gladstone, were in Dickinson on Wednesday in the interest of a Christian church which is soon to be erected in their village. The teachers who have been engaged for the Vesperti district are Miss Lucretia Skinner and A Skinner, sister and brother. Mr Skinner has a home stead between the two schools and his sister keeps house for him in addition to taking care of her work in school of the district. Miss Skinner will be remembered here as our popular telephone operator and her friends are rejoiced over her success in the far west.

Mr Will Bettis, of Fairmount, W. Va., is here for a few days visit to relatives.

Jake Dearing, flagman on the night trains, was here this week as witness in a case in court.

Capt C S Grove, of Covington, was here Wednesday attending court. He is one of the most popular conductors the K C has ever had, his polite attention to passengers, and strict attention to business having made a friend of all the patrons of his train. When "Cap" Grove was in charge, good order was always maintained.

In Memoriam.

On the evening of August 15th, at the last rays of the setting sun lit up the hill tops, the spirit of Miss Fannie Royston took its flight to the mansions in the home of the Heavenly Father. Although for three long weeks death had hovered over her, we could not believe she would have to go. So young, so beautiful, such bright hopes for many years of usefulness and happiness, so many friends, so very much to live for, surely death would pass her by. But God knows best and always does best, though we cannot understand, and finding her ready to obey the summons, called her home.

For several hours before she passed away she called to friends on the other side, waved her hand and smiled, as she, too, entered the portal, we call Death. She was one of those bright creatures who always diffuse good cheer and sunshine wherever she went. None but those who knew her well can estimate the loss the community sustains in the death of Fannie Royston. The sick and afflicted, the aged and poor, will miss her kind attentions. The church where she attended since early childhood will miss her presence at its services. Her Bible, could it but feel, would miss her daily reading, for from its pages came her inspiration for good deeds. The social circle will miss a leader and a favorite, but in the home will the loss be greatest. A father and two sisters are all who are left of that once happy family, the mother having gone to her reward some four years ago. The sympathy of a legion of friends go out to them in these dark hours. We would point to them the promises of God, for earth has no sorrow. He can not heal. Though now we greatly miss her presence we are to know that she is not lost to us forever, but gone before to meet us again when the mists have cleared away in the morning of the resurrection.

We desire to use the columns of The Record to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends for their many deeds of kindness during our recent trouble. These things are treasured in our hearts and will never be forgotten. Wm. Royston and family.

In Memoriam.

On the 6th of August, the Angel of Death entered the happy home of Mr Joe Bowman, and bore away his beloved wife, Mellie. She was in the 36th year of her age, and a member of the Baptist church. In early childhood she gave herself to Jesus, obeying the divine injunction, "Be ye also ready". She had a complication of diseases and was a great sufferer. Her life was truly a beautiful life. Energetic and industrious in her home, kind-hearted and social, she had a legion of warm friends. How hard it is to chronicle the death of one to whom life was so sweet. Besides a kind husband, she leaves a mother and three brothers to mourn her loss. Dear mother we know your heart is heavy with grief, but you weep not as those who have no hope; she is not dead but sleepeth. Her spirit is now resting in the Arms of Jesus. Let the sunshine of God's love fill your hearts and perfect you in love that you may be fully prepared to meet your dear one in the land where there is no pain, no sorrow, no death, but all is joy and peace. After appropriate remarks, the remains were consigned to the grave in the Lancaster cemetery.

Pay of Ambassadors.

Ambassadors of the first rank are those sent to England, France, Germany and Russia. They are paid each $17,500 a year. Those sent to Austria and Italy get $12,000. Ministers are paid from $5,000 to $12,000. The British ambassador to Washington gets $6,500, or $32,500. At Paris the British ambassador is paid $9,000 at St. Petersburg, $7,500, or $37,500, Berlin and Vienna $8,000 or $40,000 each; at Rome $7,000, or $3,500. In every case the British government owns its embassy buildings, while the United States has none, but is forced to rent.
